DAYTON, Ohio, September 3, 1970 --- Three educational programs by the University of Dayton's Department of Special Sessions during September will enable engineers to review the fundamentals of engineering, afford businessmen the opportunity to learn the intricacies of contracting with government and give the general public an opportunity to improve their reading comprehension and speed.

The Engineering Refresher Course, under the co-sponsorship of the Dayton Society of Professional Engineers, will start Tuesday, September 8, and run every Tuesday and Thursday through December 3. It'll be taught by members of the University of Dayton Engineering faculty and be devoted to engineering mathematics, chemistry, engineering science and professional topics in the fields of civil, electrical, industrial and mechanical engineering. Program, costing $75., will be conducted from 7 to 9 p.m. in the new Eugene W. Kettering Engineering and Research Laboratories.

Contracting with the Government, beginning September 15 and running 10 Tuesday sessions from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., will be taught by Edward Jacobson, J.D., who serves as a civilian attorney in the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate, AFLC, Wright Patterson Air Force Base. Mr. Jacobson will cover the basic principles of government contract law. Course fee is $55. and the program will be held in Kennedy Union, room 310.

The Reading Improvement Course, which emphasizes speed and comprehension, has been conducted for more than 20 years on the UD campus. Dr. Collier Powell has been the instructor during that period. The course costs $55. and will start September 29, and run in two sections (6:30 to 7:45 p.m., 7:45 to 9 p.m.) every Tuesday and Thursday through 16 sessions.
